

COEHP Awards

Dean's Award for Innovation

The Dean's Award for Innovation is presented to a CSU College of Education & Health Professions faculty member or member for innovative methods for improving student learning. Examples include, but are not limited to the:

- design of new teaching strategies and report of the work at a state or national conference
- development of novel delivery systems
- development of assessment strategies
- solution of a long standing problem with "out-of-the-box" thinking
- design of a new process for student teachers

Note: The two faculty members with highest votes will be the COEHP nominees for the University Teaching Innovation Award.
